

Wheat Harvest Is Running Short of First Estimates

Wide Spread Harvest Is Bringing Wheat To More Farmers Than Past Two Years

PRICE IS HIGH

Many Farmers Find That Wheat Not Paying Expense of Cutting the Sucker Crop

Wheat has been coming to market this week as harvest got into full swing throughout the county. The showers of Sunday night held up cutting over the county Monday morning, but most of the combines were running again by the middle of the afternoon. The price has ranged from $1.03 to $1.08.

Wheat is more of a disappointment than was suspected last week. Wheat on the sucker growth is making practically nothing.

While many farmers have designated this crop as the "late" wheat, as a matter of fact most wheat raisers state that the sucker crop is largely on the early planted wheat. Wheat that was planted in September last fall largely died down owing to the lack of moisture, and did not revive until later rains came. The early planted wheat this year is the wheat that largely has the sucker crop.

October planted wheat came thru in better shape, and as a matter of fact is generally the wheat that stood up and is making the bulk of the crop this summer.

Many farmers report that much of their wheat crop is not paying the expense of cutting, but they are going ahead in order to get the wheat off of the ground in order to properly cultivate the land for fall planting. It is considered cheaper to cut the small yielding wheat at a loss than to try to kill down the volunteer crop to a stand in the fall.

Elevator men in the county are still of the opinion that Randall county will produce more bushels of wheat this year than were produced last year. Many more farmers will receive wheat money than has been the case in recent years, owing to the increased acreage and the fact that the wheat is more or less uniform all over the county.

A fair estimate on total yield of the county is impossible at this time, but will likely be determined by next week.

Temperature Hits Highest Mark of Summer Tuesday

The thermometer mounted to 102 degrees in the shade Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, marking the highest record of the season. The high mark yesterday was 100 degrees.

While June and the first part of July were unusually cool, it is indicated that real summer weather will continue in the Panhandle for some time.

This early service will be over by eight o'clock. J. O. Quattlebaum, Minister.

BILL KNIGHTON ILL

Bill Knighton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Knighton, has been seriously ill this week with pneumonia.

Smouldering Fires at Night Dangerous and a Nuisance

A city ordinance prohibits the burning of trash at night. Many people unthoughtfully start fires in their alleys during the early evening, which fill the air with smoke throughout the evening when their neighbors would like to enjoy the cool of the evening sitting on their lawns.

Do not start fires in the late evening.

It is not only annoying, but dangerous. Wind coming up during the night might cause destructive fires as sparks are spread from the smouldering embers.

Postoffice Still At Old Location

New Building Is Accepted But Equipment Still Is Missing

It has been impossible to move to the new postoffice building this week, and no time has been set for the move.

The general delivery case is still lacking from the equipment, which is holding up the move.

R. H. Richter, member of the contracting firm of Lumber & Richter, Inc., states that his contract has been fulfilled, excepting for a few items that have not been received. The building has been accepted by the government, with the provision that the items be completed as quickly as possible.

F. C. French, building inspector for the government, is awaiting orders for transfer to another construction job.

Mr. Richter has started construction on a large postoffice building in Kansas, to which job most of his crew has been transferred.

WPA Starts Men On Campus Work

Recreation Hall To Be Completed As Materials Are on Hand

WPA construction was resumed on the campus Monday after being discontinued for several weeks.

Sixteen men were started on the project the first day, but the force will be greatly increased before the end of the week. The sewer disposal plant improvement will be completed this week and men on this job will be transferred to the campus projects.

Completion of the Recreation Hall will be the first work started on the campus.

Plans are completed to start work on the Buffalo Stadium wall and other improvements which are underway at the athletic plant.

Ample materials are on hand to complete these projects and it is believed there will be no further interruptions until all of the work has been completed.

No word has been received on the street project which was recently set up in Canyon, but something definite is expected within a week or so.

Combine on Hiway Wrecks Car of Forest Hill Saturday Night

A combine being transported on the highway north of town wrecked the car of Forest Hill late Saturday night.

The owner of the combine professed ignorance of the law which prohibits the transportation of combines at night on the highway.

The car was badly damaged and the occupants bruised and cut. Fortunately the four young people in the car escaped without serious injuries.

Ground Glass Is Fed to Pet Dog at Black Home

Ground glass was fed to a young dog belonging to the W. C. Black family Thursday. The animal died after hours of suffering.

The dog had been kept in his pen and was not bothering any one.

Such a thing can hardly be thought possible, as no suffering is so intense as that resulting from ground glass.

A few years ago a child in Canyon got hold of ground glass which was placed in food and thrown to the pet dog. The child escaped death, but only after suffering very greatly.

No more inhuman method of destruction of life could possibly be devised than that of feeding ground glass to either an animal or to a human.

Sewing Room Has Made A Record

550 Garments are Finished During Month Under This Project

Five hundred and fifty garments in one month; thousands of garments in twenty months—that's the imposing record of the twenty-three women who form the staff of the W. P. A. Sewing Room under the direction of Mrs. Roy Campbell.

June marked the twentieth month since the Sewing Room opened with a staff of ten women, many of whom had had little experience in the type of sewing they were required to do. Of the 550 garments finished in June, 390 were men's pants, overalls and jumpers, and the remaining 160 were children's overalls. Blue denim and heavy brown twill are used in making these garments, and are proof in themselves of the skill which the women have developed in their work.

Completed garments are gathered at the end of each month by members of the W. P. A. Distribution Center in Amarillo and from there are dispensed to the needy in the Panhandle.

Local employees spend 7 hours a day, 5 days a week, in the sewing room. Of this time 6 hours are devoted to cutting and stitching and one hour is spent in class work in home economics. This class is being taught at present by Mrs. Thomas Smith, a student in W. T.

Mrs. Smith meets with one group of women from 2 to 3 o'clock and with another group from 3 to 4 each afternoon. She talks to the women about the problems of the home and gives instruction in both cooking and sewing. From 4 to 5 o'clock she teaches a class in English for those who are interested. The classes meet in the sewing room.

For her work in the actual construction of garments, each employee is allowed a maximum of five yards per day. The sewing room has the use of 19 sewing machines which are furnished by Randall County. Those of the women who are not using the machines or sewing by hand are engaged in cutting out the garments. Button holes and similar work is done by hand. Mrs. L. A. Donnell is in charge of local W. P. A. projects.

Light Shower Fell Sunday In Canyon; Varies In County

A shower hit Canyon Sunday evening, amounting to .15 of an inch of moisture.

Most parts of the county received showers, but in the southeast and northwest parts good rains fell.

The rainfall was not sufficient to handicap harvest in any section of the county, and the row crop was greatly benefited where the fall was the heaviest.

All Day Singing Will Be Held at Fairview Sunday

Buffalo Dam Is Set Up As Major Project For the Panhandle Area By Washington

BILLS ARE PENDING

W. A. Warren Receives Encouraging Word From Jones and Carl Hinton on Measures

Action in congress upon the water conservation bill which affects the dust bowl sector has been held up the past two weeks while congress wrangles over the court reform bill.

Congressman Marvin Jones has notified W. A. Warren, vice president of the Panhandle Water Conservation authority, that he is very hopeful of being able to secure the passage of the bill in the near future.

While government engineers have made one trip here, and are reported to favor certain locations for dams, it is reported that the engineers will return to the Panhandle within a few weeks to inspect minor projects. It is likely that four major dams will be recommended for the Panhandle, with the largest on Tierra Blanca creek south of UMBARGER. The watershed for this proposed dam has been found sufficient to justify the erection of a large dam, and it is believed that the engineers will recommend its construction.

John McCarthy of Amarillo, chairman of the 26-county committee, has very hopeful reports from Carl Hinton, who is now in Washington working on the project. Mr. Hinton reports that nothing for certain has been accomplished, but he believes that the entire program of water conservation for this area will finally be adopted. President Roosevelt has expressed great interest in promoting a definite conservation for the drought stricken section.

24 New Books are Added to Randall County Library

Twenty-four new books were added to the Randall County Public Library Tuesday. A large number more new books will be placed on the shelves before the end of the month.

Singing was led by Clyde Warwick.

Miss Pauline Brigham and Herschel Coffee gave musical numbers. Leon Lassers made a humorous talk.

YOUR TAX DOLLAR

Every property owner knows that he pays his taxes when he is able to do so, but very often he fails to comprehend all of the sources of taxes, and where the money goes.

The following itemized statement will be of interest to those who have not taken the time to investigate.

If every tax dollar was divided, here is the percentage of its source in Texas:

Gasoline tax	2852
Inheritance tax	0090
Fees and permits	0281
Interest	0314
Cigarette tax	0430
Wine stamp tax	0004
Ins. companies, occupation	0179
Other occupation taxes	0015
Pur tax	0001
Land sales	0410
Gross receipt taxes	0964
County, federal, other aid	2009
Licenses (auto. included)	0495
Miscellaneous	0054
Court costs	0065
Beer stamp tax	0107
Franchise tax	0125
Ad Valorem	1269
Poll tax	0133
Liquor stamp tax	0136
Commodity sales	0015
Undistributed receipts	0035
Insurance maintenance	0017

The distribution of the state tax is an interesting study, and is as follows:

Highways	4273
Free public schools	2949
Judicial	0171
Legislature	0026
Military and law enforcement	0074
Registration	0154
Health, sanitation	0041

Conservation resources	0176
Eleemosynary	0496
Higher Education	0466
Pensions	0333
Parks	0137
Relief	0227
Public debt	0237

So far as the federal government is concerned, a great difference is found in the distribution of the dollar. In this instance the dollar is cut up as follows:

Recovery and relief	25
National defense	13
Interest on debt	12
Social security	11
Regular expenses	10
Veterans	08
Agricultural adjustment	07
General public works	06

Appreciation, Anyhow

ONE SHORT YEAR
Do you remember what was happening one short year ago? Governor Landon had just been nominated by the Republicans and was telling the voters what a terrible mess the President was making. The Liberty Leaguers were going full blast, taking a walk with Al Smith, just like it was the respectable thing to do.

Congressman Lempke was tearing his hair and showing how foolish a pretty good man can be under political excitement.

Father Coughlin was buzzing and roaring up and down the radio world, showing what a good priest should not be.

Dr. Townsend was showing how a good man, devoted to an ambitious cause, could be woefully mistaken in thinking that millions of followers would go, politically, wherever he told them to go.

What a merry furore it was. And here, in just a few short months, these colorful leaders, with all of their ballyhoo, are gone out of the picture and remain only a hazy memory.

Life surely is a stage, and we all are actors in the great play. When we quit this stage we, too, will be forgotten, except for the little good we may have been able to do as we passed this way so quickly.

It is well so.

School trustees were elated last week when it was announced that the State Board of Education had hiked the apportionment from $19 to $22, giving the state the highest apportionment in history. But the final chapter is not written, and it may be that the schools will not receive this added money after all.

The State Board of Education may set the apportionment, but the State Automatic Tax Board has a check upon the education group. Governor Allred is a member of the State Automatic Tax Board. The other two members are State Treasurer Charley Lockhart and State Comptroller George Sheppard. Allred appeared before the education board and urged that the taxpayers be given a breathing spell by holding the apportionment at $19. Lockhart has announced that he is opposed to the hike. Sheppard has so far said nothing. Politics may largely govern the decision of the tax board when it meets next Tuesday to set the tax rate. If the Governor and the State Treasurer and the State Comptroller wish to stay in politics and keep the friendship of the educational group, the state tax rate will be set so as to pay the $22 per capita. But if the Governor has decided not to seek a third term, and Charley Lockhart decides not to run again, as rumor has it, chances are the school rate will be lowered, and the schools will not get the money. The chief battle will be waged as to which body has the right to control the state apportionment. However, in years past the tax board has not carried out its obligations under the law, as it has held the state tax rate low and allowed the ten million deficit to pile up. This was especially true under the Moody administration when the deficit started to climb to such a high figure.

Those who have followed The News during the court reform battle are fully aware that we have stood for court reform, not only in the supreme court of the United States, but clear down the line. We are not sore at the lawyers as a class, but most certainly the laws of this nation should be revised so that unscrupulous lawyers should not be allowed to rob the people behind a cloak of security in the law. We just passed through settling a small estate in court where in the members of the family were each due $225.91. But when the lawyers got through, the individual members received $25.91, while the lawyers took the $200 due to each. Highjacking is a respectable job compared with the fees that some lawyers charge when they find their clients at their mercy.

All Americans regret that Amelia Earhart had such tough luck on her world circling flight. But there are few who will appreciate the great amount of money the government is spending to find Miss Earhart and her unfortunate navigator. Congressmen are harshly criticizing the navy for spending money so lavishly. When the pair started on the world cruise, they knew of the dangers which they were confronting, especially the long water hop which proved their undoing. Definite news may be received any minute from the missing fliers. At any rate, drastic steps should be taken by the government to prohibit stunt flying, in which Miss Earhart has been so successful, and allow commercial companies to pursue their safe and sane development of the field of aviation.

The United States Senate is struggling over the court reform bill. Ugly words are being hurled back and forth between the senators—most of them for the consumption of the customers who fill the galleries, and for the people back home. Charges and counter charges are being made. Lawyers are being condemned alternately with praise heaped upon those fortunate enough to get federal lifetime jobs. Every parliamentary order to gain control of the situation. All in all, not a vote will be changed, and when the final vote is taken, it will be just as if no long battle of words had been waged. But the American public likes its politics.

Roger W. Babson, leader economist, states that the dangers from labor trouble have largely passed. John Lewis has overplayed his power and is rapidly losing his control on his newly organized unions. Strife and dissension among the newly made leaders; ignorance and gross unfitness among these men; unauthorized and unjust strikes—are factors working against Lewis and his followers. Babson charges that one of the outstanding weaknesses of the Roosevelt administration has been Secretary Perkins and her playing up the socialistic tendencies of Lewis and his followers.

Something has gone wrong in the Texas penitentiary system. Two successful escapes have been staged in two weeks by the worst criminals in the system. These criminals were out on the farms where only trusty criminals were supposed to be kept. It is likely that the lives of officers will be sacrificed before these men are caught and returned. But even though returned without bloodshed, the state will be out thousands of dollars in needless expense.

Wheat in Randall county is a great disappointment to many farmers this year. The crop is not making the estimate placed upon it before harvest started. The conservation movement, with contouring and summer fallowing will probably be the ultimate goal of all farmers who make wheat profitable in these years of sub-normal rainfall.

Agricultural experts are worried. One of the biggest crops in the history of the nation will be harvested this year. Farm prices are high now, but are rapidly dropping. A huge surplus is in the offing, which would again drive prices below the cost of production.

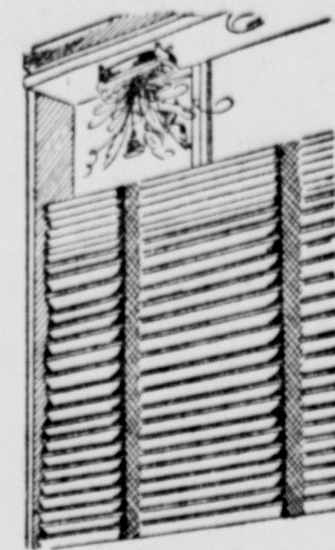

Izzard: How would you define a picnic? Jitters: A picnic is a day set apart to get better acquainted with ants, bugs, worms, mosquitoes, chiggers and poison ivy.

College Donkey Softball Game Is Scheduled for Wednesday

An aggregation comprised of members of the college faculty and students will clash with a local all-star squad in a donkey softball game Tuesday under the lights of Buffalo Stadium. The fray will be directed by the Buffalo Club on Wednesday, July 21.

All of the players will be mounted upon donkeys except pitchers and catchers. Five burros will be supplied for base runners.

Mae West, white stocky-legged base runner, is famed to be a crowd entertainer because of (his or her) ludicrous antics. During the career of the animal, only four runs have been scored on it. Blue Streak, a base runner, has played four seasons and has allowed only three runs. Strawberry Roan, Sweet Milk, diminutive burro, and Midnight are the other base runners.

Marie Dressler, the "old gray mare," a stubborn mule, will hold down the first sack, and Clark Gable, mouse colored animal, is slated to play second base. The third base mule is the namesake of John Garner because it was raised within 400 yards of the vice-president's home in Uvalde. "Will Rogers" is the other infield mount.

Wallace Berry, mouse color, Dan Patch, and Colleen Moore, spotted mule will act as the outfielders.

Admission prices for the contest will be ten cents and twenty-five cents and all of the proceeds will be used to complete Buffalo Courts.

The wise man will question his own judgment but the fool never has any doubts.

Young Welshman Leaps Into Heavyweight Title Scene as Louis' First Opponent

A YOUNG Welshman who had found successive employment as a coal-miner, bellhop, and waiter, took stock one day of his bulging muscles, rugged physique, and general all-round good health, and decided forthwith that such menial tasks were not for him.

So young Tommy Farr became a box-fighter, a heavyweight box-fighter at that, and it wasn't long before young Tommy had established himself therein as one of King George's leading subjects in all England, Ireland, and the Dominions beyond the seas.

A comparative unknown just a few months ago, Farr first made an impression upon cauliflower alley last March when he won the British championship from Ben Foord of South Africa. But it was not until he whacked the daylight out of former champion Max Baer and scored a three-round knockout over Walter Neusel, Germany's number two ring warrior, that the big-wigs of the fight game realized the 23-year-old British heavyweight had something.

Although Farr's workmanlike triumphs over Baer and Neusel speak for themselves, there's nothing like a good foreign challenger to put additional appeal into a heavyweight title bout, and no one is quicker to take advantage of this than Mike Jacobs, who holds the contract for Joe Louis' services for some time to come.

His intentions were good but his early efforts hardly stamped him as a heavyweight of any great prospects. He won decisions over Tommy Loughran and Bob Olin in very lack-luster contests and was headed for nowhere in particular until he got his chance against Ben Foord.

Acquisition of the British title gave him something of a name however, even though British fighters have failed to cut more of a figure in heavyweight ranks, and then he was matched with Baer. He received $10,000 for plastering Playboy Maxie all over a London ring, top earnings for him until then, and added further to his laurels and bank account when he kayoed Neusel a little later.

A fair boxer and capable of doing a lot of damage with a solid right hand punch, Farr appears to be a welcome addition to the sadly thinning ranks of heavyweight contenders. At least the British think so. And so does Mike Jacobs, who hopes to pack the fans into Yankee Stadium the week of Sept. 13, when Joe Louis first defends his title.

PEOPLES STORE Canyon, Texas

Rise of Tung Oil Industry Is New Hope for the South

Scattered throughout the south today are thousands of young tung trees growing in orchards such as that shown above, left. And at the right, the harvested product—bags of tung fruit from a Georgia orchard, ready for shipment to the closest mill. From the seeds in this fruit, tung oil is extra cted.

DEVELOPED by the Chinese centuries ago, tung oil production is today spreading across southern United States, giving promise of a thriving new industry.

This year's crop of tung fruit on trees scattered throughout Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas, reports the U. S. Department of Commerce, should produce at least 2,000,000 pounds of tung oil.

"And this," says the department, "is a very definite answer to whatever skepticism or doubt there may be as to our ability to establish an American tung oil industry."

Tung oil is a raw material which the United States must have and for which it has been entirely dependent upon a foreign source of supply—China. Tung oil is extracted from seeds of the tung tree, a fast-growing ornamental tree with large, dark green leaves. The fruit is about the size of a russet apple and ripens in October.

THE Chinese used tung oil for centuries as a waterproof covering for wood, masonry, and other materials. In America tung oil is used chiefly in the paint and varnish industry, but is employed widely in other fields.

Demand for it reaches a new high today. Consumption in 1936 alone aggregated 125,000,000 pounds, of which only 2,000,000 was produced at home.

Thus, the tung oil industry assumes major significance. First planted in Florida, tung oil trees now cover at least 75,000 acres in the south.

Experimental and other plantings have shown that the area for successful commercial growing will likely be restricted to a rather narrow strip of land, in most places 100 miles or less wide, embracing southern Alabama, southern Mississippi and Louisiana, the northern third or half of Florida, the eastern and northern Gulf states of Texas, and the southern and southeastern sections of Georgia. There is a growing thought that possibly the northern limit may be extended.

Tung oil mills already have been established at Gainesville, Fla., and Bogalusa, La. A new mill is now under construction at Piquette, Miss.; another is planned for Wiggins, Miss., and others are under consideration.

Thomas H. Hawks, one of the prime movers in the growing industry, points out that the product is in exactly the same stage today as was petroleum 25 years ago. Hawks already sees the industry filling a major gap in the farm tenancy problem of southern states. He contemplates a program embracing share relationships between mill owners and farmers.

TUNG oil prices today range from $25 to $35 a ton for tung fruit. This would represent a return to the producer of 50 cents on the dollar for the gross value of oil contained in the fruit.

Under present processes, only one-fifth of the nut is marketed. Research indicates, however, that the remaining four-fifths may be utilized for by-products which may prove even more valuable than the oil itself. Already the value of tung meal as a fertilizer is set at $25 to $30 a ton.

Eventually, it is expected that 99 per cent of the fruit will be utilized, thus assuring a highly profitable crop. One of the most encouraging factors is that the American product proves superior physically and chemically to the imported product.

This much should be remembered, however, warns the Department of Commerce—the tung oil industry is no get-rich-quick affair. Tung trees take several years to develop under the most careful cultivation. Once on their way, however, they may be expected to bear for 50 years or more.

Tung oil production is, therefore, essentially a long-term project. But authorities are convinced it can make the grade.

I was taking tea with a great city editor last Sunday afternoon when his little daughter came back from Sunday school with an illustrated card in her hand.

"What's that you have there, little one?" the editor asked.

"Oh," said the child, "just an ad about heaven."

MULISH

"Why do you say that Crimmon-beak is a man of stable habits?" "Because he kicks like a mule."

Mrs. Marigold: Were you a distinguished college graduate, dear? Sally (a recent grad): Oh, no, a miraculous one.

SUICIDE

A man decided to commit suicide. He armed himself with a rope, a revolver, a bottle of gasoline, and a bottle of arsenic.

He climbed out on a tree overhanging a long drop into the sea, and tied one end of the rope to the tree and the other to his neck.

He swallowed the arsenic, sprinkled the gasoline over himself and set it alight, and shot himself. The bullet glanced off his skull and severed the rope. He plunged down into the sea, which extinguished the flames and incidentally acted as an emetic to the poison. And what's more, if he hadn't been a good swimmer, he'd have drowned.

COMFORT

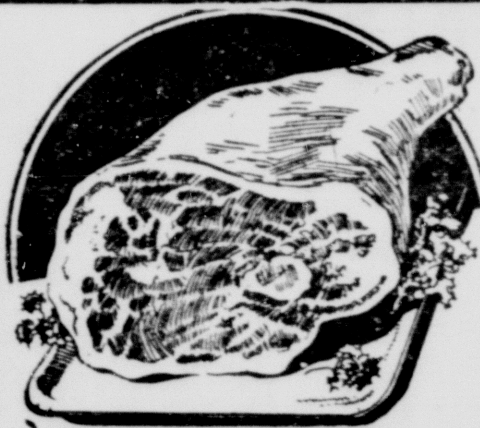

Lady in Restaurant: "Why don't you shoo your flies?"

Chief: "Well, you see it's hot today, so I thought I would let them run around barefooted."

Story says the strip-tease is on the way out. But then it's always been an on-and-off sort of business.

Now that trailers are being air-conditioned there seems to be nothing left for the stationary home but paving assessments.

The paranoiac, says an American doctor, is one with delusions of grandeur. But in Europe they call them dictators.

Deep-Sea Bound? No! Going Up!

Flight Lieut. M. J. Adam wasn't preparing to plumb the depths of the ocean as attendants fitted him securely into the costume shown in the above picture. Instead of going down, Lieutenant Adam went up, at Farnborough, Hampshire, England, and set a new world altitude record of 53,939 feet in a Bristol monoplane. The helmeted suit helps the wearer withstand the change of air pressure in rarefied atmosphere, and is connected to a tank of oxygen.

'Strictly Business' Flights Over Atlantic Herald New Day in Commercial Aviation

Blazing a new trail through the airways, a clipper ship, of the type shown in the above picture soaring over mid-town New York, made the first successful "strictly business" flight over the Atlantic recently, by way of Botwood, Newfoundland, and Foynes, Ireland. Pan-American and British Imperial Airways are co-operating in making careful experiments for what is hoped to be a regular transatlantic passenger, mail, and freight service from New York to London. Capt. Harold E. Gray, above, commanded the huge Sikorsky flying boat which made the first flight. Pictured next is a member of the crew making up one of the berths, while below them is a map of the proposed route, and the one which the clipper ship followed.

A GIANT, four-motored Sikorsky flying boat slipped off its run-way at Port Washington, L. I., the other day, its engines humming a full-throated song of power. In a few seconds it gained altitude, pointed its nose to the northeast and roared off through the skies for Botwood, Newfoundland.

Lingering briefly at Botwood for refueling and inspection, the ship then headed out over the Atlantic Ocean, and winged its way to Foynes, Ireland. From there it was only a comparatively short hop to Croydon Field, London, and the first "strictly business" flight in the interests of commercial service from America to England had been completed.

Numerous flights have been made from America to different parts of Europe, each one indicating that some day it would be possible for regular commercial service to be established. Now with business and trade tie-ups more closely knit than ever before, Pan-American Airways is attempting to demonstrate the time has come to take the first steps toward setting up this service.

However, there were obstacles to be overcome before even test flights could be made. Pan-American is conducting the experiment with British Imperial Airways, which gave rise to a question of international diplomacy.

In order to insure the greatest degree of safety in transporting passengers, mail, and freight, it was necessary to select coast-wise points at both terminals as the most vital links in the route. And Great Britain holds sway over both points—Botwood, Newfoundland, and Foynes, Ireland.

Much political red-tape had to be unwound before the two nations could agree on a working agreement, and that, only after British Imperial agreed to accept New York City as the final terminal of the system, instead of Montreal, as the English would have preferred.

For years Pan-American has been planning, experimenting, watching, and waiting for the day when it could actually begin operations. Already its giant clipper ships have spanned the Pacific, but that venture too, was completed successfully only after flight conditions and half a million experimental miles had been flown. Not until months of painstaking preparations had been finished did the China Clipper carry passengers and mail.

So it is with Pan-American's Atlantic service. Once again it will be a matter of trial and error and careful observation before hundreds of passengers and thousands of pounds of mail travel back and forth between the world's two largest commercial centers.

In the attempt to prove the value of heavier-than-air machines for transatlantic service, gigantic flying boats quite similar to the China Clipper will be used. Four 740-horsepower motors will provide the power. Cruising speed will be at least 180 miles per hour.

Ample room for thousands of pounds of gasoline and oil will be necessary, but still there will be space for sleeping accommodations for passengers and crew, for the kitchen, for a promenade cabin, radio room, and mail, freight, and baggage.

Although the huge ships later to be used in the actual operation of transatlantic service may not be superior to the great craft which recently made the first successful test flight over the proposed route, Pan-American and British Imperial intend to carry on their careful experiments. No definite time has been set for the first flight with passengers and freight, but in all probability it won't be made until the two transport companies feel they have everything as perfect as they can make it.

Evans To Organize Officials Rating Board Friday

Students interested in forming an officials rating board in Canyon will meet with Miss Hazel Evans, new member of the women's physical education department, Friday night at 7:15 o'clock. Miss Evans is state chairman of girls' basketball for the coming year.

The purpose of forming the board is to train older girls and women as athletic officials for girls' sports, and to serve as a clearing house for problems such as interpretation of rules in sports.

Officers will be elected at the first meeting. Membership is open to any one. Work must be carried on by the board for a year before recognition by the National Board is possible. Similar organizations are in operation at Denton, Belton, and Austin.

Miss Margaret Kirkner of Austin, a member of the National Executive Committee, has considered the possibilities of a board at Canyon, and the plan has been approved by Miss Ruth Cross, head of the department.

More for Your Money

Firestone Rubber Plantations in Liberia furnish ever increasing supply of finest quality rubber.

FROM the day of its introduction, the Firestone Standard Tire has more than lived up to its name by setting a new high standard of tire values. Hundreds of thousands of car owners have already bought it because they saw in it more value for their money.

"How does Firestone do it? How can they build so many extra value features into Firestone Standard Tires and yet sell them at such low prices?" The answer is simple—Firestone controls better-quality rubber and cotton supplies at their source, keeps manufacturing costs low by efficient factory methods and sells in such huge volume that distribution costs are held to a minimum.

Make no mistake about this! The Firestone Standard Tire gives you the blowout protection of Firestone's patented Gum-Dipping process. Its scientifically designed tread gives greater non-skid protection and longer wear. And those two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread guard against punctures.

R. P. Jarrett In Rotary Talk Gives Principles of Club

Bob Jarrett made an interesting talk on the principles of Rotary at the weekly luncheon of the club on Tuesday.

Rotary was started more than 30 years ago by Paul Harris and three young men in Chicago who met together for lunch and to talk over the events of the day. Developing a kindred feeling on prevailing problems, they evolved ideals which they sought to give to others.

Mr. Jarrett developed three phases in giving reasons why Rotary had grown and caught the imagination of so many business men.

1. The selective membership makes the member representative of his profession. He is not selfish in his representation, because he seeks to make his profession worth while to the community.

2. The member joins Rotary to improve himself, and in so doing increases the service of his profession. While profit should be made on all business transactions, Rotary says "He profits most who serves best." Those who are not in Rotary are represented by those in their profession who are members of the club.

3. The Rotarian will use his influence to elevate his profession, since he influences those of his profession who are not in the club.

The true spirit of Rotary is shown by those who are doing more than they have to do when there is no reason for doing it.

President Bill Warren presented Retiring-President Harry Brown, with a past-president's pin in recognition of his services during the past year.

Visitors present were: R. B. Fisher of Pampa; Estill Foster of Childress; Charley Shearer of Seagraves; Judge A. J. Foley, Jack Cunningham, Jim Oaks, R. E. Wertz, Roy White, Arch Hunsley, all of Amarillo.

Science Displaces Sentiment in Baby Care

Science displaces sentiment in the baby ward of this Atlanta hospital, although proud papa may not be wholly in accord with the policy. The arrangement is part of Emory University Hospital's strictly scientific handling of new-born babies. Brothers, sisters, and even father, can view the new-comer only through a glass door until both mother and child are released from the hospital. At the left, big brother John Peterson and his aunt, Ruth Johnson, are on "the outside looking in," as Miss Frances LeGuin fastens the crib onto the inside of the door. In handling the babies, right, all the nurses are required to wear masks to protect the infants from germs.
